Caddie Nath-Folsom, Director of Legal Advocacy for DOVE, will be on-site to talk with people who have experienced abuse by an intimate partner and have legal questions about divorce, custody, child support, restraining orders, immigration or other related legal issues. Attorney Nath-Folsom will be able to provide general legal information, answer questions, and help with referrals for other services such as counseling and safety planning. She can also answer questions about DOVE services for those who have friends or family members who might be facing domestic violence.

Telephone interpretation for most languages.

All of DOVE's services are free and completely confidential.
